'41 Enrollment In Commerce Increases

Office Machinery Worth $7,000 Placed at Disposal Of Business Students

The enrollment of freshmen in curriculum V, which is a four-year program for the training of teachers of business education, has increased 50 per cent.

Several students, who have completed curriculum B have returned to enroll in four year programs. This is gratifying to the business education faculty, because a student holding a degree has a much better opportunity to obtain a desirable position which pays a substantial salary.

The department of business education places at the disposal of its students, for instructional purposes, $7,000 worth of machines commonly used in offices. These include typewriters, adding-listing machines, calculators, a dictating machine, six transcribing machines, a shaver, a late model mimeograph and mimeoscope. In addition to the machines used, the department also used the forty hour filing course marketed by Remington Rand, which offers the student actual filing experience on a miniature scale.

Particular pride is taken by the business education department in the furniture with which the typing room is equipped. The 20x36-inch oak desks, of varying heights to accommodate students of different stature, are unique and represent an investment of $300.

Reports indicate that a large percentage of all graduates of the department of business education are (See Commerce, page 4)

Dingledine To Talk In Sunday YWCA

Using as her subject, "The Cup of Lovingkindness," Jane Dingledine will speak during the Sunday Y. W. program at 2 p. m. in Wilson auditorium.

Louise Vaughn will lead the service, and Rachel Young will be in charge of the scripture reading and the prayer.

Also featured in the program will be a violin solo by Jane Thomas, accompanied by Edith Snidow at the piano.

The officers of the freshmen Y. W. commission will present the Y. W. vespers next Thursday evening at 6:30. At that time they will discuss the topic, "Christian Influence on the College Campus."

Dr. Frederikson Is Guest Speaker at Annual Banquet

Otto F. Frederikson, professor of history and social science, was guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Winchester education association at Winchester last night. He spoke on the significance of the international situation.

On Tuesday Dr. Frederikson held an open forum on world affairs at the monthly meeting of the Staunton Daughters of the American Revolution.

Breeze Sponsors Straw Vote Election In Student Assembly, October 28

Wendell Willkie, who is one of the presidential candidates to be voted on in the straw vote which the Breeze is sponsoring on Monday.

Music Faculty Gives Program

Choral Clubs, Schneider Offer Vocal Selections; Marshalls Perform

With both faculty and students participating, the music department offered the assembly program on Wednesday morning.

"Toccato" by Rogers, was played by Mr. Clifford T. Marshall, on the organ, followed by an improvisation on Friml's "Indian Love Call" from Rosa Marie.

Two trumpet solos by Mrs. Clifford T. Marshall, and included a "Concertino" and "Invictus" by Huhn.

"When I Have Sung My Songs" by Ernest Charles and "Ecstasy" by Pummel were sung by Miss Edythe Schneider.

Chorus singing by two groups, the Glee club, directed by Miss Edna T. Schaeffer, head of the music department, and the Choral club, led by Miss Gladys Michaels, was included in the program. The Glee club sang "Lo, A Voice to Heaven Sounding" by Bortniansky and "Let My Life Be Music" by Charles Gilbert Spross, while the Choral club offered "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way" by Effinger and "The Green Cathedral" by Hahn.

Physics Department Gets New Mascot

It's just one of those things that won't stay scooped, so here it is in his own words, "Mr. and Mrs. E. N. McWhite announce the birth of an eight-pound son Wednesday morning at Rockingham Memorial hospital. Mother and son are doing fine, thank you, but papa is worn out!"

Dean Gifford heard it this way, "It's an eight-pound boy. How'm I doing?" The faculty, all the way to Miss Cleveland, has its cigars, but Mr. McWhite ran out of them after one physics class.

The Breeze likes nothing better than a faculty scoop. Press time can be extended to early Friday morning. How about it?

Griffith, Tillson Will Speak For Democratic, Republican Candidates Respectively

The selection of the favorite presidential candidate among students on this campus will take place at a mock election which is to be held Monday, October 28, during the regular assembly hour. The result of the vote, which is being sponsored by the Breeze, will be published in the November 1 issue of the paper.

Preceding the balloting, speeches in behalf of the two major candidates will be made as a part of the assembly program. Alice Griffith, as the representative of the Democratic party, will speak for Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry Wallace, while Barbara Tillson will support the Republican candidates, Wendell Willkie and Charles McNary.

A similar election, which was held at Madison during the Roosevelt-Landon campaign in 1936, resulted in a Democratic victory. Out of 428 votes cast, 270 were for Roosevelt, while Landon received 128. It is expected that over 1100 ballots will be cast this year.

Straw votes have been held in various Virginia colleges, including Randolph-Macon, Washington and Lee, and Hampden-Sydney. At Randolph-Macon, Roosevelt triumphed over Willkie by a majority of 32 votes, while at Hampden-Sydney, Willkie was favored by a plurality of seven votes.

Sample ballots will be posted on the bulletin boards in the post office and on the door of the Breeze room.

Training School Inaugurates New Planning System

Parent participation, a plan to encourage the interest of school patrons, is being inaugurated this year at the Main street school, teacher training center for students of elementary education at Madison college, according to Miss Vada Whitesel, principal.

Each teacher is inviting the parents of the children in her class to a meeting at which she will explain the state curriculum and tell what the class expects to do. She will explain the activities, habits, and attitudes to be stressed, asking the parents' help in the formation of these habits.

Together, the teacher and parents will plan a month's work, the parents being asked to check the children's work at home, but not to help with it. Patrons are being encouraged to consult the teacher whenever necessary.

Dr. Duke To Talk In Chapel About James Madison

Dr. S. P. Duke, president, will discuss James Madison and explain the origin and significance of the choice of the college name, during assembly hour next Wednesday. This will conclude the series of talks in which the president has discussed the background of the college.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for president, whose success or failure in the campus election will be announced in next Friday's Breeze.

Officers Attend ACP Meeting

Flohr, Coupar, Whitelegg, McGavock Leave Nov. 6 For Detroit, Michigan

Four representatives from the student publication of the campus, the Breeze and the Schoolma'am, will leave November 6 for Detroit, Michigan, to attend the Associated Collegiate Press convention to be held at the Book-Cadillac hotel November 7 to 9.

The delegates from here who will go to the meeting are Julia Ann Flohr and Kay Coupar, editor and business manager of the Breeze, and Martha McGavock and Betty Whitelegg, editor and business manager of the Schoolma'am.

The convention program includes a dinner for the delegates given by General Motors corporation at which Charles F. Kettering, head of the research department, will speak.

A member of both the National Scholastic Press association and the Associated Collegiate Press, the Breeze will be entered for the sixth consecutive year in the critical survey which these organizations offer to college publications in the United States, and in which for five years it has received the first class honor rating of excellent.

In 1939-40, the Breeze, under the editorship of Frances Taylor, was rated for the first time in a class which included colleges and universities with an enrollment of over 1,000.

P. O. Announcement

Mrs. K. Z. Lincoln, postmistress of the Madison College sub-station, announces that her office can and is willing to handle college mail, that is, articles for distribution through the local station, provided the envelopes are of standard size and bear the addressee's number.

Pieces of mail not marked with the correct box number will not be distributed; however, anyone inquiring at the post-office window will be given access to the chart of box assignments.

Concert Dance Group To Be Here Nov. 6

Humphrey And Wiedman Will Appear In Year's First Lyceum Number

Recognized as two of the most important figures in American concert dance, Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman will bring their group to Madison college on November 6 for their only concert here this season. Their appearance, the first number on the lyceum course, will be at 8 p. m. in Wilson auditorium.

Brilliant choreographers as well as soloists, Miss Humphrey and Mr. Weidman have created more than 100 compositions. Many of these, though serious in theme, are humorous in treatment, since Miss Humphrey and Mr. Weidman believe that the dance should "amuse, entertain, and astonish" audiences as well as arouse them. Of their work, John Martin, New York Times critic, has said that "there is nothing finer, within this country or in Europe."

Both dancers come from the middle west, the one a graduate of a Chicago finishing school, and Weidman from Lincoln, Nebraska. They first met in the dance company of Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn. Following a period of study at the Denishawn school in California, they became featured soloists and toured with the company in America and in the Orient.

Shortly after their return, Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman decided to start off by themselves. They wished to put into practice some new theories of "the dance as a vital force in contemporary life" in which they found themselves vitally interested. So in 1928 they opened their own school in New York and that fall gave their first major recital. They (See Lyceum, page 3)

Campus Shrubbery To Be Replanted

According to an announcement by Dr. S. P. Duke, president, a contract for the moving and replanting of shrubbery on campus has been let. A portion of the evergreens by Senior hall will be moved to the space on front campus by the railroad.

"Hillcrest," the president's home, will be relandscaped, and some of the larger trees and shrubbery will be replaced by the old English boxwood. This boxwood was originally around Cleveland cottage.

The contract also includes provision for rearrangement of plantings around Junior hall.

Logan Will Attend Meeting Of C. E. A. In Richmond

C. T. Logan, head of the English department, will attend the meeting of the College English association which is being held at the John Marshall hotel in Richmond, tomorrow.

At this meeting, for Virginia members of C. E. A., the speakers will include Professor Schaeffer of St. John's college, Dean Landrum of William and Mary, and Col. Dixon of V. M. I.

WIN WITH WILLKIE

And why should Mr. Roosevelt deem himself worthy of a third term in the White House? Washington, Jefferson, Madison, and the first Roosevelt, men whose true worth has been proven beyond doubt, saw fit to decline a third election to the office, and Franklin D. Roosevelt has no more right or reason than they to break a precedent which has long been treasured as a factor in the preservation of democracy.

What will happen to our democratic government if we, the people, insist that there is only one man for the office? Roosevelt will come to feel that he is indispensable to the well-being of our country—that is the philosophy of Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin. If we allow our wills to bow to Roosevelt's every wish, we will be augmenting, rather than stemming the drift to dictatorship. Then democracy will not exist for Republican, Democrat, Socialist, or any other American citizen.

All around, there is heard the cry that Roosevelt has miraculously relieved the unemployment situation. He has done much; but as he has been successful along a few lines, the rolls of unemployment and relief have steadily mounted so that the unemployment total is greater now than it was on March 4, 1933. Does that prove Roosevelt's efficiency in the industrial field?

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt does have the backing of Dorothy Thompson; she is a political columnist of the first rank. But on the other hand, solidly behind Wendell Willkie is The New York Times, the most powerful newspaper in the United States.

Why shouldn't we change horses in the middle of the stream? England did, and her present successful resistance to Germany is due to the change from Chamberlain to Churchill. Chamberlain had done his best, and so has Roosevelt; but you know what Churchill has done for England, so let's forge ahead with Willkie.

LOUISE PARKS

ROOT FOR ROOSEVELT

"I shall support the President because I think he has assets on his side which nobody can match," wrote Dorothy Thompson in The Washington Post of a week ago. That statement was perhaps Mr. Roosevelt's greatest achievement of the pending election, exclusive of any campaigning on his part.

If the American people choose intelligently at the polls in November, Roosevelt will have little need for "peddling planks in the platform." He will remain in the White House.

We have observed that Britain, in time of extreme emergency, adopted a Churchill dictatorship. It was the only solution to the weighty issue so suddenly thrust upon the English people. The American people as an entity are also facing emergency, in the form of threats from powerful totalitarian sources. The Atlantic and Pacific oceans serve, at present, to paralyze such a menace. It would follow then, that these matters of national defense, state unity, and skilled diplomatic maneuvering have become pressing necessities. Mr. Roosevelt was active as regards rearmament; on the eve of election, he called for conscription; he recently negotiated invaluable strategic air bases for defense of our shore line; among his personal advisers are men chosen with regard to ability rather than party; the working men are wholeheartedly supporting him. Most significant, through a life devoted to statesmanship, the President is prepared, head and shoulders above any other person, to handle U. S. foreign relations, in both hemispheres.

Shall we quibble over a third term idea? Again quoting Miss Thompson, "The third term is a tradition, not a constitutional matter." We have sharply criticized England because she was "blinded by tradition." It is possible for the same error to occur twice within an era. Mr. Roosevelt is America's answer and the choice is in our hands.

Cross-Section Of Students Gives Reasons For Choice Of Presidential Candidate

WHICH PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE WILL YOU VOTE FOR IN THE MOCK ELECTION THAT THE BREEZE WILL CONDUCT MONDAY?

LOUISE DAVIS: Despite my being born and bred a South Carolina Democrat (the like of which there is none), I am going to vote for Willkie in the straw vote. I think no man should be indispensable in a democracy, as Mr. Roosevelt seems to believe himself to be. May my ancestors not turn over in their graves!

MARY LOUISE SYDNOR: I really don't know who I'm going to vote for in the straw vote. I don't believe in the "third term" and I don't believe Willkie is the man.

JANE THOMAS: In the straw vote for the Breeze I shall vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt, because in this great time of trouble I do not believe that we should change horses in the middle of the stream. I also think that he is the better man. He has had plenty of experience while Willkie has had none.

KATHRYN VALENTI: Mr. F.D.R. of course! I, like many others at such a time, want to be governed by someone familiar with the presidential duties and functions of our present-day government. I feel that no other person could hold this office as well as Mr. Roosevelt has for the past eight years. He may not have been successful in every attempt, but neither were other great men. I'm afraid it is getting too warm across the ocean for our electors to introduce a new executive into the White House this November.

RUTH HOSTETTER: I'll cast my vote for Willkie! I strongly oppose the third term, large national debt, and the government in business. I believe Willkie is the man to get rid of government in business, to reduce the national debt, and do a good job as president.

MARY BABB: I'm going to cast my straw vote for Roosevelt next Monday. My opinion is that a "dark horse" may mean a black future!

GLADYS WALKER: I'll cast my vote for Wendell Willkie because, in my opinion, a versatile and efficient business man, lawyer, and history teacher, with faith in the people and our nation's future peace and prosperity, is more worthy than a politician, however experienced the latter might be. Willkie started at the bottom and worked hard to make himself what he is. He, in turn, expects us to work with him to make something more of this wealthy nation than a militarized bureaucracy of dependent individuals. It can be done and Willkie thinks he can do it. That's why I'm for Willkie.

PEGGY SCHULER: I will vote for Roosevelt—because he seems to me the lesser of two evils—and besides, he is at least a gentleman!

LUCY TOM EPPS: Roosevelt. The only solid reason I can think of against a third term is the traditional two terms observed beforehand. Tradition plus Willkie against Roosevelt and the nation's need for him to lead us again, is weak. Roosevelt has proven himself a capable and considerate leader, and we need him now.

VIRGINIA WEST POST: I'm going to vote for Roosevelt because I think it is a bad time to change presidents, and because he's the best man. He doesn't go around slamming his opponents every time he gets a chance.

College Executives Speak On Defense

Typical of defense messages to students at scores of colleges was that presented by Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard college, New York. "Students should continue their college educations until needed for active participation in helping their country," she said, and explained that should the stream of students stop, the country would find itself short of trained and educated citizens. "Women are especially needed because now their brothers are going to be occupied in sterner aspects of national defense."

University of California students were warned by President Robert Gordon Sproul that they will be suspended from college if they actively oppose the defense program. "I may find it necessary to ask some of those who prefer to fiddle while Rome burns, or build private bonfires of destruction, to defer their enjoyment of an education at the state's expense until the life and prosperity of the state have been made secure by their more patriotic fellows," he said.

F. WRIGHT

Campus Correspondent

It just isn't fair! After listening to many an analyzer of human character, one hears of all the earmarks that give insight and perception into her neighbor's "personal personality." It may be the shape of the nose—and that's not your fault, reader—or the lines marking the palm of the hand, or even the color of clothes that uncover the culprits soul. But the thing that everybody omits is, to me, the true tell-tale of the heart, and that's "everyday" shoes.

To make the survey sound authentic, let us choose a personality already labeled by his fellowman, and then investigate his shoes. Well, the amiable type... the one who hums and whistles in his shower on a Wednesday morning at 6 a. m., you know. Claims it's due to insomnia, but one look at his shoes will tell the penetrative observer that that's his true personality. The shoes are a moccasin style, well-proportioned, (representing emotional balance) with a suggestion of a sheen on the round toes and flat rubber heels. When they walk they come straight for you, signifying friendliness. Incidentally, they're turned just an iota, on the one side of the heel, and that speaks of a slight weakness which may be dormant, but which, again to the discerning eye, is evident. One might retort that turned heels are merely a matter of physical friction, but here it's different. That slight awryness seems always to remain constant.

Shoes with a high polish imply a note of superfluity, while those of opposite (!) finish denote either a plain phlegmatic personality, or a very unusual makeup. However, the determining factors lie in the width of the foot gear. A broad lumbering one implies the lackadaisical, while the narrow, long type expresses the unusual. A shoe with high breadth (from sole to strings) infers unselfishness. Those that turn out at the toes signal "avoiding the issue." Shoes with heels that go "click-click" intimate coquetry, while those that go "ker-plunk" (two beats to the measure) mean one thing—a corn! There are shoes that seem to cry "Don't leave me behind!"—the wearer is stunting his ambitions. Those that walk on the arch and ball, with plenty of the leather turned up in mid-air, manifest a keen sense of humor—when the joke's on you!...Tread carefully, or you'll be labeled a Fifth Columnist or sompin'.

Wool-Gathering

PROFS CLASSIFIED

The Emory Wheel, newspaper of Emory university, declaring that "since the professors divide students into classes, it is safe to assume that all professors can also be divided into classes," offers these groupings:

1. The Killer type. He wants to kill off the lower third and thinks the best way is by overwork.
2. The Card type. He is a card, but not an ace. He's a 3x5 card. Outstanding in his index appeal.
3. The Spicy type. He has a lot of cheek and plenty of tongue to put in it. His lectures kick up intellectual sparks out of the academic flint.
4. The Skimmer type. The surfacing in his courses is fine. But the foundation is weak.
5. The Fatherly type. He is the unexpected father, always giving pop quizzes.
6. The Hard Rock type. You have to be more than a good musician to hit a high C under this joker. If he were a movie critic he wouldn't even give the United States flag 48 stars.
7. The Uh-Man type. He doesn't know any punctuation, expects "uhs." For variety he throws in a "but uh" now and then.
8. The Cocktail type. He whets your intellectual appetite. He knows a great deal but doesn't try to make everybody realize it.
9. The Candy-Between-Meals type. A course under him destroys your intellectual appetite.
10. The Axe-Grinder type. He can't sharpen his wits, so he has to grind an axe. Sometimes it's propaganda he grinds out.

Option—The Nomad type. Like the Nomad of the desert, he loves to wander, and what he wanders over is as dry as the desert.

Openings Set For Tomorrow

Orange And Black To Be Color Scheme; Aleshire Will Head Receiving Line

Attending the first of two opening dances, the seniors and sophomores will dance to the music of the Ambassadors tomorrow night from 8:30 until 12 p. m. in Reed gymnasium.

The gymnasium will be decorated in Hallowe'en style with window drops and streamers of orange and black. Corn stalks and witches will provide a spooky atmosphere for the dancer and their dates.

The hostesses of the dance will be the social committee, and the standard committee will serve refreshments during intermission from 10 to 10:30.

Marine Aleshire, chairman of the social committee, will head the receiving line, which will consist of Fay Mitchell, president of the senior class; Bess Butler, president of the sophomore class; Dot Nover, president of the Student Government association; with Inez Craig, introducing.

Chaperones for the dance will be Dr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Duke, Mrs. Annie B. Cook, and the sponsors of the two classes, who are Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Logan, Dr. Rachel Weems, Miss Lafayette Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slaughter, Mr. and Mrs. London Sanders, and Miss Ada Felch.

The guests of honor will be Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Pittman, Miss Edna T. Shaeffer, Miss Edythe Schneider, Dr. and Mrs. Leland Schubert, Miss Elizabeth Harris, Miss Martha Boaz, Miss Elizabeth Davis, Dr. Argus Tressider, Miss Helen Frank, and Miss Ruth Hudson.

The social committee announces that the chaperones of the dances for the year will be the dean of women, the president of the college and his wife, and the sponsors of the various organizations which will give the dances. For each dance, a group of faculty members will be invited to attend as guests of honor until all have been included. However, all of the faculty are invited to any of the dances they wish to attend.

Tickets for the Hallowe'en dance are now on sale in Mrs. Cook's office. The price is $1.00, stag or date.

Art Club Admits Six New Members; Contest Opens

At a meeting of the Art club held last week, six new members were taken in: Rebecca Craig, Ruth Jones, Edith France, Annie Francis, Lois Johnson, and Ida Richardson.

A contest, beginning October 25 ending November 15, will be sponsored on campus by the Art club for all students except the members. Black and white water color paintings will be entered in the contest.

"Irene" Will Be Shown Saturday

"Irene," an R.K.O. musical comedy, with Anna Neagle in the title role, and Ray Milland, Roland Young, Billie Burke, May Robeson, and Arthur Treacher in the supporting cast, will be shown in Wilson auditorium tomorrow night.

Adapted from Harry Tierney's operetta of the same name, this modern film version of the familiar Cinderella story offers a variety of entertainment in music, dancing, and comedy as Anna Neagle, an upholsterer's apprentice, captures the heart of Ray Milland, who masquerades as Madame Lucy, the secretive masculine modist who employs and finally marries her.

Ninety Pupils Have Voice Recordings

Ninety students who enrolled in English 371 have had voice recordings made during the past two weeks. A similar record will be made at the end of the year, in order to note improvement. The work was done with the recording equipment in the studio in the basement of Wilson hall, under the direction of Clifford Marshall and E. N. McWhite.

Other Virginia colleges which do similar work in recording include the University of Virginia, Sweet Briar, and Roanoke college.

Between concert engagements, Miss Humphrey and Mr. Weidman teach at their own studio in New York, where pupils have been drawn from all parts of the country; at Temple university and Bryn Mawr college in Philadelphia, and at Columbia university and New York university. During all five summers of its existence they have given courses at Bennington school of the dance in Vermont, and presented their company in festival performances there.

Miss Humphrey and Mr. Weidman, with the men and women of their group, are making a second trans-continental tour.

Sororities Give Rush Reception

Schneider Offers Selection; Moore Sings Composition By Jeanne Tuttle

A joint formal reception was given by Alpha Sigma Alpha, Pi Kappa Sigma, and Sigma Sigma Sigma, national educational sororities, in honor of their rushees of the season, last Tuesday evening in Alumnae hall.

Frasquita Serenade was the selection offered by Miss Edythe Schneider, a member of the music department and sponsor of Alpha Sigma Alpha. Jeanne Tuttle then introduced her composition, Why Should I Care, which was sung by Margaret Moore. The members of the Glee Club who are also sorority members sang Tell Me Why.

Marine Aleshire, chairman of the social committee, introduced, while the receiving line was composed of Gwen Trueheart, president of Pan Hellenic; Skippy Warden, president of Alpha Sigma Alpha, and Miss Marie Boje, sponsor; Kitty Dawson, president of Pi Kappa Sigma, and Mrs. Althea Johnston, sponsor; and Evelyn Jefferson, president of Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Miss Margaret Hoffman, sponsor.

On Wednesday night, Pi Kappa Sigma entertained its rushees at an informal Hallowe'en party in the gym. The rushees of Sigma Sigma Sigma were told their places in the world of tomorrow by Jane Sites, while Jane Dingledine gave them a stiff scare at their Hallowe'en party on Thursday evening. The theme of bobbing apples and a barn dance was followed by Alpha Sigma Alpha at its informal party Friday night.

Rushing will be followed by a period of silence until bids are issued on Saturday, at 2 o'clock, in Mrs. Cook's office.

Haines To Play Here Nov. 2

Soddy Haines and his orchestra, of Winchester, Virginia, have been signed to furnish music for the junior-freshman fall dance on November 2, announces Marine Aleshire, chairman of the social committee. Haines has made several previous appearances at Madison, the most recent being for the May day dance last spring.

Decorations for the dance will carry out the autumn theme. Kitty Moltz has charge of the decorating plans and will be assisted by the two dance clubs.

Juniors and freshmen may buy their tickets now in Senior hall, room 306. The price is $1.00, stag or date.

Westhampton Meets Madison's Varsity Team Here Tomorrow

Local Team Lines Up Strong Backfield; Visitors Will Be Guests In Junior Hall

Meeting a traditional opponent, Westhampton college, the Purple and Gold hockey eleven will play its initial match of the '40 season on the local field tomorrow at 2:30.

The Richmond girls have, as a rule, been evenly matched with the Madisonites in previous years. In 1938 the two squads struggled to a 1-1 tie, while last year the Spiderettes proved victorious by a narrow margin of 2-1, on their grounds. The local team will line up an especially strong backfield, all being experienced players, either before, or in college, and capable in their defensive roles.

Arriving on campus tonight, the visitors will stay in Junior hall, where they will be guests of the third year men until Sunday morning. Both teams will be given a reception in Junior dormitory parlor immediately following the game. The Westhampton girls will be invited to attend either the opening dance tomorrow night or the movie in Wilson auditorium.

The Madison line-up for tomorrow is:

Anna Jane Pence.....L.W.
Eleanor Kash.....L.I.
Frances Wright.....C.F.
Margaret Moore.....R.I.
Jackie Turnes.....R.W.
Johnny West.....L.H.
Charlotte Beville.....C.H.
Hannah Heath.....R.H.
Marjorie Pitts.....L.F.
Dot Wilkinson.....R.F.
Emily Lewis.....G.

Substitutes: Mildred Edney, Janie Hendrikson, Audrey DeMott, Dot Pitts, Virginia Dodd, Dorothea Fleischer, Marie Sesze.

CORRECTION

Jeannette Donahue, right inner and varsity player, was omitted from the list by mistake in last week's announcement of the squad.

Moreland, R-M President, To Speak To Student Body

Dr. J. Earl Moreland, president of Randolph-Macon college in Ashland, will speak to the student body on Wednesday, November 6, as a part of the annual observance of senior class day, according to an announcement made by President S. P. Duke this week.

Dr. Moreland, who succeeded the late Robert Emory Blackwell as president of Randolph-Macon in 1939, was formerly vice president of Scarritt college, Nashville, Tenn.

Art Class Announces Results Of Taste Test In Harrison

Madison students are definitely more artistic in selecting spoons than in choosing men's ties; such was the result of the "Test Your Taste" project sponsored by Art Appreciation class 311.

Approximately 94 percent of the girls voting made the correct choice of spoons while two-thirds of the voters selected the least artistic tie. The articles were judged by art authorities on the basis of space and their judgment is now on exhibit in the post office lobby.

Poor on Frames

"Madison college girls apparently need to study how to frame pictures," said Miss Grace Palmer, instructor of the class sponsoring the taste project, in regard to the statistical report showing that 77 percent of the voters did not select the framed picture which the judges considered the first choice.

A result of the balloting on children's picture books could not be determined because they were not correctly exhibited.

Notice Balloting Form

Eighty-nine votes had to be thrown out because they were unintelligibly marked. Students are urged to notice that the ballots contain spaces for first and second choices. Thus, a marked ballot should read as 1.A, 2.B, or 1.B., 2.A., according to the student's choice.

A larger percent of students are urged to participate in the "Test Your Taste" projects which will be continued in the post office lobby, and will be judged on different principles of art.

Patterson, Week End Guest Of Dr., Mrs. Frederikson

Evelyn Patterson, graduate of '38, was the guest last weekend of Dr. and Mrs. Otto F. Frederikson. Miss Patterson, who taught in the Harrisonburg schools for the 1939-40 session, recently received her master's degree in comparative literature at the University of Wisconsin, and is now teaching at Arlington hall.

Walker Urges Students To Write School Song

Kathryn Walker, president of Aeolian music club, again urges each and every pupil who is interested in writing a school song to have it finished and handed in to her by November 15. As yet only one song has been written.

For further details concerning the contest, re-read the Breeze of October 4, or see Kathryn Walker.

Six New Books Will Be Available Tonight In Browsing Room

The following books will be ready for circulation from the Browsing room at 7 o'clock this evening:

Rockwell Kent combines autobiography with romantic adventure in Salamina, the enthusiastic chronicle of his years spent in North Greenland. Novel-like, it contains glowing descriptions of the native population, the thrill of exploration, and the remote and beautiful landscape in which he found ideal settings for much of his painting and writing.

Other volumes are: Let the People Sing by J. B. Priestley; I Lost My English Accent by C. V. R. Thompson; It Takes All Kinds by Louis Bromfield; Graham Peck's Through China's Wall; and The Keepers of the House by H. H. Kroll.

employed. The department is now undertaking a survey of all former students in business education for the purpose of analyzing their present status, and to derive from them suggestions for the improvement of the local instructional program.

The business education survey will make a particular effort to learn of problems and difficulties with which former students have been confronted. These problems will be given special consideration in improving the department's program of instruction.

Boaz, New Librarian, Says Madison Spirit Unchanged Since She Was Student Here

By Louise Parks

"Many of our larger colleges haven't as fine a college spirit as is found on Madison's campus. And the place hasn't changed much since I was here as a student," said this Miss Martha Boaz, new assistant librarian, as she began to describe her impressions of the college with an alumna's-eye-view.

She toyed with a book which she had been cataloging, as she reminisced about her own college days here. "The basic characteristics of the student body are the same—highly emotional, sometimes bordering on hysteria. But all women's colleges have that atmosphere in the student body. There's the same enthusiasm over a long distance or a special as there was when my classmates received them," she continued.

Miss Boaz considers the new library the most magnificent and greatest change which has taken place. She finds that the addition greatly facilitates the achievement of a high standard of work in each department.

"I worked in the library one year as a student, and then I thought that I would like to be a librarian, but I did my student teaching in English. I even debated as to whether I should get my masters in English, or library science, and I may yet do graduate work in English," the librarian added.

The new staff member finds most amusing among overheard conversations, the problem of weight. She laughed then, for she said she herself worried bit about gaining when a freshman.

"I'm very much disappointed that the golf course has been allowed to go down as much as it has during the last few years, for I am a golf enthusiast, though not an expert by any means," she added. She is also quite interested in swimming, tennis, riding, bridge, and all types of recreation.

"The most amusing change is that I am now a house mother; all my friends kid me about it," Miss Boaz laughed. "My experiences with the dorm prove more than ever that the campus spirit is as fine as it can be."

I. R. C. Presents Madison Documents To Library

The International Relations club, aided by Mr. J. K. Ruebush, has presented two military commissions to Madison Memorial library. These commissions, one naming a Joseph Kean second lieutenant in 1809, and the other, in 1814, giving him the title of captain, were both signed by James Madison during his term as president.

Debating Club Adds Five

After successfully passing their tryouts, the following girls will be initiated into the Debating club on Monday, October 28: Anne Randolph, Eva Dominitz, Ellen Katz, Fannie Hutcheson, and Edith Manson. Those girls who did not pass this time will be given another chance next quarter.
